

8th Edition of Fabrics & Accessories Show Set for a Grand Opening

June 3, 4 and 5, 2011 is important dates in the textile calendar. It is on these dates that more than 5,000 members of the textile supply chain will come together for the Fabrics & Accessories Trade Show at the sprawling Palace Grounds in Bangalore.

Now into its 8th consecutive year, the F&A Show 2011 will witness the participation of a record number of companies which will display a wide and varied range of products comprising apparel fabrics, trims, embellishments and services. This also confirms a resurgence in the textile and apparel industry which has been in the throes of economic difficulties especially in the export markets. "The surging domestic demand is helping in reviving this sector," points out Mr. P. Krishnamurthy, CEO, S S Textile Media Pvt. Ltd., organizers of the F&A Show.

It is in this environment that the F&A Show is playing a critical role in bringing the textile value chain together and assisting in strengthening the sourcing of textile materials. "High quality trade buyers are expected to visit the 8th F&A Show, comprising senior merchandisers from Buying Houses, Garment Brands, Garment Exporters, Wholesalers, Dealers and Retailers," affirms Mr. Krishnamurthy. A well directed campaign is creating awareness about the F&A Show, not just in Bangalore and its surroundings, but also in the other sourcing hubs in the country.

"Each edition of our show grows in scope and stature and this year, it is no different," said Mr Krishnamurthy, adding, "over 40% of the exhibitors this year will be newcomers, or those who are participating after having taken a break of a couple of years. The others, as usual, will be at the show in full strength, showcasing their new products and designs to the industry at large. We are committed to help drive this sector by getting in more buyers as well as suppliers. Moreover, with the strong indications of economic revival in the textile industry, the 8th edition of F&A 2011, will once again provide an excellent business platform for both the Indian and international manufacturers."

An important component at this edition of the F&A Show will be a segment of manufacturers from China, who are keen to explore this important and significant market in South India. Besides these, there will be exhibitors from places like Hong Kong, Sri Lanka, Pakistan, USA, Germany and others.

Visitor registrations too are an all time high. "Buyers from neighboring countries like Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Myanmar, Thailand, Nepal and the Middle East are already familiar with the F&A Trade Show as an ideal one-stop sourcing point and are visiting the fair this year too," said Mr. Krishnamurthy.

After the success of the Business Networking Forum last year, the show is all set once again to bring together captains of the Textile Value Chain to speak and debate on pressing issues of the textile and clothing industry. Within the framework of F&A Show 2011, the much anticipated Business Networking Forum (BNF) will be held with leading manufacturers launching their new collections of products and distinguished speakers presenting topics that would be of interest to the textile industry. As was during the last edition, this year too the BNF will be strategically planned and formulated with the help and support of leading international and national experts.

The event as usual will feature the entire gamut of products like shirting, suiting, bottom weights, dress material, embroidered fabrics, grey fabrics, imported fabrics, knitted fabrics, outerwear fabrics, printed, processed, linen, modal, tencel, ramie fabrics, silk fabrics, specialty fabrics, velvet fabrics, woolen fabric as well as furnishing fabrics. The accessories section will feature items like buttons, hangers, interlinings, labels, laces, motifs, stones and studs, tapes, thread - sewing, embroidery, zippers & services.
